

In today's competitive market it's time for over the air radio to learn to compete with satalite radio instead of having the government to their dirty work. I think the FCC has much more important work than dealing with something like this.